OUTLINE, SELECTED QUOTES AND NOTES

Foreword

This book is the result of 40 years of investigative research, exposing the takeover of medical education by rich industrialists through the control of private trade associations, federal agencies, and philanthropic foundations.

Chapter 1 - The Medical Monopoly

Medicine and healing has been practiced for at least 3,600 years.
Until about 150 years ago, doctors practiced as freelance agents and assumed all risks of their decisions.

1511 - King Henry VIII signed the Act of 1511, which made it illegal to “practice physic or surgery” without the approval of a panel of experts.

1518 - Royal College of Physicians was founded.

1540 - barbers and surgeons forced to “register.” Regis = king.

1542 - King Henry VIII enacted the Quack’s Charter which granted “unauthorized practitioners” freedom to continue their practice.

1617 - Society of Apothecaries, England, founded.

1832 - British Medical Association chartered. BMA was the foundation of the AMA.

1847 - American Medical Association founded in the US. Homeopaths outnumbered allopaths 2:1. From its inception, the AMA existed to 1) attain and defend a total monopoly of the practice of medicine in the US, 2) teach allopathic medicine only (drugs and surgery), and 3) discredit and destroy competing medical practices (like homeopathy and chiropractic.)

1854 - during the cholera outbreak, deaths at homeopathic hospitals were 16.4%, while death rates at medical hospitals were 50%. This record was deliberately suppressed by the London Board of Health.

1900’s - dark ages of medicine in the US. John D Rockefeller (from the house of Rothchild) realized he could make greater profits from medicine than from oil.

In 1892, Frederick Gates was appointed head of all Rockefeller philanthropic endeavors (including all Carnegie foundations). In 1907 the AMA “requested” Carnegie Foundation to conduct a survey of all medical schools in the US. Abraham Flexner was tapped to conduct the survey, known today as The Flexner Report, which was completed in 1910. Abraham Flexner’s brother Simon was the head of the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research.

Bernard Flexner (brother of Abraham and Simon) was a lawyer who accompanied Supreme Court Justice Brandeis to the Versailles Peace Conference to advance Zionist movement, who later became a founding member of the Council on Foreign Relations, and a trustee of the Rockefeller Foundation with his brother Simon.

Daniel Coit Gilman (1831-1908) was instrumental in establishing Johns Hopkins University, The Russell Trust at Yale (which later became the Brotherhood of Death), the Peabody Fund, the John Slater Fund (which later became the Rockefeller Foundation), Rockefeller’s General Education Board, the Carnegie Foundation, and the Russell Sage Foundation.

Johns Hopkins University was “the headquarters of the German allopathic school of medicine in the United States.”

By the end of World War I, the number of medical schools had been reduced from 650 to a mere 50 in number. The number of annual graduates had been reduced from 7500 to 2500. The enactment of the Flexner restrictions virtually guaranteed that the Medical Monopoly in the United States would result in a small group of elitist students from well to do families, and that this small group would be subjected to intense controls.

Healthcare (now and in 1988) is the most expensive in the US yet we have the worst health. Iatrogenesis: doctor-made illness

Chapter 2 - Quacks on Quackery

George Simmons directed the AMA 1899 to 1924. Ironically, he himself was a quack: “No one has ever been able to determine that he had studied anywhere to qualify for a medical degree. Nevertheless, he began to advertise that he was a ‘licentiate of the Rotunda Hospital of Dublin,’ referring, presumably, to Dublin, Ireland. In fact, Dublin Hospital had never issued any licenses, nor was it authorized to do so.”

In 1921 Simmons established the Institute of Medicine in Chicago, a holding company for his bribes. Simmons attempted to dispose of his wife by drugging her insane. The case was brought against him at a trial in 1924 where his wife testified he drugged and gaslit her. This happened to literally hundreds of wives at that time.

This advertisement appeared in the Lincoln, Nebraska, newspapers years before he obtained his mail order diploma from Rush Medical College. In this license “Doc” Simmons represents himself as a homeopath. He grew more ambitious in his later advertisements and claimed to be a “licentiate of Gynecology and Obstetrics from the Rotunda Hospitals, Dublin, Ireland”. Note the humbug “Compound Oxygen” Cure.

Morris Fishbein joined AMA in 1913, became the boss when Simmons was forced to resign in 1924, and was kicked out in 1949. He admitted under oath in 1938 that he had never practiced medicine a day in his life. He had been exposed on a national radio program, Town Meeting of the Air, in early 1949, as a habitual liar. Maintained the title editor of the AMA but was powerful enough to control committees, standards, and all publications. He became medical adviser to Look Magazine, the 2nd largest publication in the US. He published the Modern Home Medical Adviser, a massive annual volume.

Under Fishbein's editorship, the AMA published health magazine, Hygiea, and started the The Seal of Acceptance under the Committee on Foods of the AMA to promote certain corporate interests.

“Throughout the 25-year reign of Morris Fishbein at the AMA, the organization repeatedly made bewildering about face recommendations on certain products, the reason for such reversals being known only by Fishbein himself. The situation also offered impressive profits to be made by investing in the stock of a certain drug firm just before it received the coveted AMA Seal of Acceptance for a new product. After such an announcement, it was not unusual for the stock of the drug firm to double in price. Only Dr. Fishbein knew when such an approval would be released.”

He covered up a dangerous outbreak of amoebic dysentery in Chicago at the World's Fair in 1933. He approved a long list of extremely dangerous and harmful drugs.

Dinitrophenol - despite studies showing how harmful it is Tryparsamide - arsenic based, caused blindness.

Sulfathiazole - produced by IG Farben subsidiary - contained Luminal. Killed many users.

Sulfanilamide in diethylene glycol - this mixture is fatal, causes white blood cell loss.

Suprol - kidney damage

Digitol - dangerous

Ergot Antiseptic - recalled for “adulterants and misbranding”

1941 - the AMA and the District Medical Society were found guilty of anti-trust law violations

1953 - Senator Charles Tobey, after seeing his son's doctor Dr. Robert E Lincoln expelled from the Mass Medical Society because of his ability to treat cancer successfully using alternative methods, published in a congressional investigation “a conspiracy does exist to stop the free flow and use of drugs in interstate commerce which allegedly (have) solid therapeutic value.” Dr. Lincoln sued the MMS for libel, but died before the case came to trial.

Doc Simmons and Morris Fishbein perfected the nationwide drug operation. They controlled the prices on the drugs and became massively rich along with drug producers, while the people spend more and more on medicine every year. From 1955-1975 the cost of medical care rose 300%. By 1978, five billion tranquilizer pills were being prescribed; the most notorious of these, Valium, produces five hundred million dollars per year income for Hoffman LaRoche Co.

1962 - Congress passed stringent requirements for drug manufacturers to prove their drugs were effective. The AMA and their corporate bed buddies started the War Against Quackery as a diversion away from their failure to comply with congressional requirements.

1963 - Second National Congress on Medical Quackery. Subcommittee of quackery resolved to “eliminate Chiropractic” as documented by their trustees. War waged for decades.

August 27, 1987, after eleven years of continuous litigation, Federal Judge Susan Getzendammer of the U.S. District Court found the AMA, the American College of Surgeons, and the American College of Radiologists, guilty of conspiring to destroy the profession of chiropractic.

1964-1974 the cartel forced various government agencies to initiate police actions against independent health practitioners and anyone who posed a threat to their monopoly. Federal agents literally broke down doors to confiscate herbal teas. The Federal Trade Commission, the Post Office Department, the Food and Drug Administration, and the United States Public Health Service all worked together to destroy the competition.

1980s war against quacks continued by Congressman Claude Pepper and Dr Victor Herbert.

The Coordinating Conference on Health Information was funded by the leading drug companies, and sent hundreds of victims to prison on flimsy and trumped up charges, to terrorize anyone who had become active in alternative health.

National Health Fraud Conference

American Council for Science and Health, a front for major food manufacturing companies.

CCHI went underground after a major war against independent alternative health practitioners.

California State Board of Health became defacto HQ and took over terrorizing health practitioners.

“The drug cartels have never been investigated by any government agency under the pertinent provisions of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, because these cartels are the property of the international financial monopolists. This proves what many observers have charged for years, that the government regulations purportedly enacted by Congress to protect the public have, in reality, served only to protect the monopolists. By 1986, this Medical Monopoly had reached a yearly take of $355.4 billion a year, eleven percent of the Gross National Product of the United States. “

Chapter 3 - The Profits of Cancer

Cancer spread with the rise of industrialization. 1830 cancer was responsible for 2% of deaths in Paris. In the US cancer was 4% in 1900. Today it is 20%!

“Cut, slash, and burn” technique is the highwater mark of the German allopathic school of medicine in the United States.

Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Institute in New York.”The Temple of the modern method of cancer treatment in the United States.”

Dr. J. Marion Sims - Son of a South Carolina sheriff and tavern owner (1813-1883), a nineteenth century "women's doctor." For years he performed "experimental surgery" by performing horrendous experiments on slave women in the South, including 30 operations on the same girl without anesthesia. According to his biographer, these operations were "little short of murderous." Sims founded Women's Hospital in 1855. Sims began specializing in cancer around 1870. Got funding from the Astor family (East India Co, British Intelligence, international opium trade), to start a cancer center, NY Cancer Hospital (opened in 1884, renamed Memorial Hospital in 1890s).

American Society for the Control of Cancer founded in 1913, same year as Federal Reserve Act. Renamed American Cancer Society - main funders are Rockefeller and JP Morgan. Memorial Hospital received funding from Harriman and Dodge empires.

James Douglas, Chairman of Phelps Dodge co, owned the richest copper mine in the world. “Douglas offered to give Memorial Hospital $100,000, but there were several conditions. One was that the hospital must hire Dr. Ewing as its chief pathologist; the second was that the hospital must commit itself to treating nothing but cancer, and that it would routinely use radium in its cancer treatments. The hospital accepted these conditions.” James Douglas was obsessed with radium, used it on his family. He died of aplastic anemia in 1913.

Alfred P Sloan, president of General Motors, director of JP Morgan Co. Opposed use of safety glass in new cars because it was too expensive. Sloan was worth $200-400M in 1960.

Charles Kettering, inventive genius in the automotive industry.

Alfred P Sloan Foundation and Charles F Kettering Foundation directors include scions from all major industries, from automotive to banking to intelligence to chemicals (pages of connections).

“The governing board of Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Institute, called the Board of Managers, reads like a financial statement of the various Rockefeller holdings.”

“Memorial Sloan Kettering and the American Cancer Society are the principal organizational functionaries, with the American Medical Association, of the Rockefeller Medical Monopoly.”

Peabody family - may be said to have invented the concept of foundation philanthropy.

George Peabody - founder of JP Morgan banking firm

Endicott Peabody - founder of the establishment training school Groton

Dorothy Peabody - director of Sloan Kettering, on the board of American Cancer Society for years

Endicott Peabody Davison - secretary to JP Morgan Co, president of US Trust

Albert Lasker (1880-1952) the father of modern advertising. Responsible for many advertising campaigns of the 20s and 30s. Passionate Zionist. "Lasker's greatest achievement was his national campaign to persuade women to smoke in public." Saw to it that movies depicted women smoking. Worked on boosting the image of the American Cancer Society in the 40s. Died of cancer. "It is ironic that Albert Lasker, the co-creator of the American Cancer Society as we know it, and its subsidiary creature, the National Cancer Institute, should have built much of his fortune on his promotion of cigarette smoking."

Elmer Bobst - President of drug company Hoffman LoRoche - "the vitamin king." Developed advertising campaign for vitamins, mouthwash, and many more products. Helped launch Nixon to the presidency. Launched volunteer fund-raising drives for the ACS.

Clarence D Little - chairman of ACS, president of American Birth Control League, the Euthanasia Society, and the Eugenics Society.

1955 - ACS took over all research from the National Research Council by creating a new Science Advisory Council to represent American hospitals and universities

"In 1958, the officers of the American Cancer Society were Alfred P. Sloan, president; Monroe J. Rathbone, president of Standard Oil; Mrs. Anna Rosenberg Hoffman of the Rockefeller Foundation; General Donovan and Eric Johnston. Senator Ralph Yarborough of Texas, a perennial champion of socialized medicine, established a 26-member National Panel of Consultants on the Conquest of Cancer, chaired by Benno Schmidt, head of J. H. Whitney investment banking firm, other members were Laurance Rockefeller, Dr. Sidney Farber, former president of the American Cancer Society, G. Keith Funston, chairman of the Olin munitions firm, and Mathilde J. Krim, a former Zionist terrorist." In 1976 at least eighteen members of the American Cancer Society's Board of Directors were executive officers of banks.

Deeper exploration of the Zionist/Nazi connections as it relates to philanthropy and medicine. Arthur Krim. USS Liberty false flag.

"There have been numerous exposes attesting that most of the "cancer research" is bogus, replete with faked results. In one of the more publicized incidents, the National Cancer Institute gave $980,000 to a researcher at Boston University, who was forced to resign after charges that he had falsified his research data... Dr. William Summerlin of Sloan Kettering admitted painting the mice to make them look as though successful skin grafts had been done."

1971 - Nixon signed National Cancer Act which transformed the NCI into a monolithic government bureaucracy.

1978, the American Cancer Society had $140 million income of which less than 30% was spent on cancer research, with 56% going to cover administrative costs

1979 - The New York Times reported that 70% of all cancer patients at Memorial receive radiation treatments, at a charge of $500,000 a year. It now performs 11,000 surgical procedures and 65,000 radium treatments a year. In 1980, Memorial bought all new equipment for its radium treatment, an expenditure of $4.5 million. However, radium treatment continues to be a horrifying treatment in its effects.

1988 - 60 Minutes expose "The Facts Were Fiction" examined "one of the leading scientific scholars" in the nation. He had claimed to have done extensive research on the mentally retarded at a state institution, where the records clearly showed that he had only worked on goldfish. The "Sixty Minutes" report estimated that from ten to thirty percent of all research projects carried out in the United States is totally faked, because of the requirements to win the grantsmanship race."

The Rockefeller Medical Monopoly and the drug firms under their control "routinely present elaborately faked "tests" to the Food and Drug Administration to obtain approval for new products, concealing harmful side effects, which often include liver and kidney damage, or death."

1988 - NCI reported that despite advances in detection and treatment, the overall cancer cases and deaths have increased

1989 - Budget for National Institute of Health doubled to $6.2B (1.5B for cancer and 2B for AIDS).

While wedded to the ritual observance of these expensive, painful and futile procedures, the "Scientists" at Sloan Kettering maintain a resolute phalanx of opinion denouncing various wholistic procedures which rely on diet, nutrition and vitamins

ACS and NIH routinely ignore known, published dietary and lifestyle recommendations, in favor of surgery and chemotherapy.

Dr. Theodore Miller at the Cancer Center originated the hemeocorporectomy, cutting off everything below the pelvis.

Congressional Report followed some 31 human guinea pig experiments over a 30 year period. Injecting patients with plutonium, radium, thorium, uranium salts, and exposing patients to various radioactive substances.

Side effects of chemotherapy are horrendous: Chemo has been called "bottled death."
High stress levels are linked to cancer.

Dr Ephraim Cutter wrote in his book Diet in Cancer, "Cancer is a disease of nutrition."
"Hippocrates coined the word diaitia, meaning "a way of life" which is what a diet is... Some researchers believe that the adverse effects of carcinogens, radiation and sunburn on humans is caused by the fact that they are suffering from poor nutrition... The sun's rays create an acidic condition which causes these substances to rise to the surface of the skin, causing an irritation which can then become catalyst... Some experts note that they can detect cancer by the peculiar smell of a person in its early stages, the smell of decomposition... The epidemic of prostate cancer among American men seems to be the result of a diet of rich foods, with frequent ingestion of eggs, meat and dairy products, and baked goods made with refined flour."

"Only four percent of the nation's medical schools offer a course in nutrition. This reflects the Rockefeller Medical Monopoly's obsession with drugs and its commitment to the allopathic school of medicine, as opposed to holistic [approaches]."

The ACS board and its allied organization, Sloan Kettering, have many members who are heads of the largest chemical firms in the United States. Conflict of interest much?

Radiation increases the spread of cancer, as does cutting into a tumor. Yet, radiation and surgery are the preferred methods of cancer "treatment."

ACS was asked to take a stance against numerous proven dangerous chemicals, and refused.

The American Cancer Society also stands firmly behind radical mastectomy, the total removal of the breast in cases of women's breast cancer. This technique is frowned upon as unusually brutal and ineffective; it has long been abandoned in most European countries

Cancer rates remained static from 1950-1975, and have only increased since. Where are the promised breakthroughs?

“Another independent physician, Dr. Max Gerson, discovered that a vegetarian diet, with raw fruits and vegetables, and no salt, cured migraine and lupus. He continued his studies until he found that detoxification of the body could cure cancer. In 1958, he published his findings in his book, "A Cancer Therapy," emphasizing a low fat diet, no salt and a minimum of protein. In 1964, he was invited to testify before a Senate Subcommittee, which produced a 227 page report, document number 89471. The copies of this report were never distributed by the Senate; it received no coverage in medical journals, and Dr. Gerson never received one cent from any charitable organization such as the American Cancer Society to either prove or disprove his findings, even though these groups claimed they were "researching" a cure for cancer.”

More systematic suppression of treatment and alleged cures by the ACS.

“the American and English tobacco industries, which are dominated by the Rothschilds, use sugar in their tobacco, for a sweetened, sugar dried effect. England, uses 17% sugar, the United States 10%. England has the highest lung cancer rate in the world. Dr. Passey concluded that the addition of sugar to tobacco creates a carcinogenic substance in the nicotine tar; in air dried tobacco, this carcinogen is not activated. He found no resulting lung cancer in the Soviet Union, China and Taiwan, all of which produce air-dried tobacco.”

Chapter 4 - Vaccination

The body has a natural immune defense against illness.

Vaccine safety is hardly a consensus; there have always been doctors warning against vaccination.

“My honest opinion is that vaccine is the cause of more disease and suffering than anything I could name. I believe that such diseases as cancer, syphilis, cold sores and many other disease conditions are the direct results of vaccination.” -Dr. Henry R Bybee.

“Cancer was practically unknown until compulsory vaccination with cowpox vaccine began to be introduced. I have had to deal with a least two hundred cases of cancer, and I never saw a case of cancer in an unvaccinated person.” -Dr. W. B. Clarke of Indiana

In an article in Science, March 4, 1977, Jonas and Darrell Salk warn that, "Live virus vaccines against influenza or poliomyelitis may in each instance produce the disease it intended to prevent ... the live virus against measles and mumps may produce such side effects as encephalitis (brain damage)."

CBS then or later could never find any reason to air any analysis or scientific critique of the swine flu vaccine, which was identified as containing many toxic poisons, including alien viral protein particles, formaldehyde, residues of chicken and egg embryo substances, sucrose, thimerosal (a derivative of poisonous mercury), polysorbate and some eighty other substances.

Dr. Lindsly R. Williams - director of the NY Academy of Medicine, secretary of Health to Roosevelt (polio victim aka poisoned). Banking family. He stood for the political and commercial domination of the medical profession under a socialized system. Rockefellers want socialized medicine - Medicare

Many children died from polio vax. The Surgeon General of the United States, Leonard Scheele, pointed out to the annual AMA convention in 1955 that "No batch of vaccine can be proven safe before it is given to children."

Polio vaccination has now been accepted as a fact of life by the American public. Yet, all cases of polio since 1979 had been caused by the polio vaccine (1988)

Chapter 5 - Fluoridation

The principal source of the fluoridation is a poisonous chemical, sodium fluoride, which has long been the principal ingredient of rat poison... The by-product of the manufacture of aluminum, sodium fluoride had long posed a problem. Except for its limited use as a rat poison, other popular uses were limited by its extremely poisonous nature.

The principal sponsor and promoter of the fluoridation of the nation's drinking water was the U.S. Public Health Service under the Federal Security Agency.

Oscar Ewing was promoted to lead a national fluoridation campaign. He was:

- Special Prosecutor for the Department of Justice
- Head of the Public Health Service
- Chairman of the Democratic National Committee
- Head of the Federal Security Agency

The Washington Post noted on April 20, 1988 that "The Public Health Service estimates that each year $2 billion is saved through water fluoridation." Our Public Health Service demurs on any statistical substantiation for this claim. Do the Public Health Service officials imply that the aluminum manufacturers save $2 billion a year through fluoridation of water?"

Fluorides have long been a source of contamination in the United States. Large quantities of this chemical are also produced by the giant chemical firms, American Agricultural Products Corporation, and Hooker Chemical. Hooker Chemical became part of the Rockefeller network when Blanchette Hooker married into the Rockefeller family by marrying John D. Rockefeller III.

1971-1973: West Germany, Sweden, and the Netherlands all banned fluoridated public water. Soviet studies showed that fluorides were extremely important in introducing a docile, sheep-like obedience. Passivity is needed in the Sovietization of America.

Aluminum Company of America (ALCOA), the $5B/year enterprise in 1988, is responsible for the fluoride initiative.

William H Krome George, ALCOA director/chairman, director of US USSR Trade and Economic Council, director of various defense companies: TRW, Todd Shipyards, International Paper, Norfolk Southern Railway.

William B Renner, ALCOA president, Shell Oil Co director.

William S Cook, ALCOA director, chairman of Union Pacific Railroad.

Alan Greenspan, ALCOA director, chairman of the Federal Reserve, chairman of a Special Commission on Social Security, partner of JP Morgan, wall street consultant, star of the "great social security crisis of 1983," Capital Cities ABC Network director.

Forrest Shumway, ALCOA vice chairman, director of Transamerica, Mack Trucks, The Wickes Companies, Gold West Broadcasters, United California Bank, Natomas Inc.

Paul H. O'Neill, ALCOA director, Harvard University Board of Visitors member, International Paper president, National Westminster Bank director, Chief of HR for US gov.

The origin of the sodium fluoride controversy stems from close allies of the Chase Manhattan Banks and other Rockefeller interests.

Alzheimer has been traced to the large amounts of aluminum which most Americans began ingesting with their food since the 1920s. Alzheimers is now causing more than 100,000 deaths annually, and is the fourth leading cause of adult death in the United States, yet, significantly, there has been no national foundation such as the American Cancer Society or the Arthritis Foundation to investigate its causes, because the Medical Monopoly already knows the answer.

1920s: cast iron pans were being replaced by aluminum cookware.

Acid foods can pit aluminum cookware. Cooking any food in an aluminum pot, particularly with fluoridated water, quickly forms a highly poisonous compound.

What else contains aluminum? Women's douches, aspirin, antacid tablets, deodorant, Nonprescription antidiarrheal drugs, vaccines, cereals and baking powder, toothpaste...

Chapter 6 - Whither AIDS?

Cancer profiteers and Medical Monopoly insist on treating AIDS as a malfunction of the cell itself, which, of course, calls for the "magic bullet," the chemotherapy which will be provided at a price by the Drug Trust... The Establishment approach is to attack the virus, not to aid the system in overcoming it.

From 1976 to 1981, AIDS was almost exclusively publicly identified as a disease of homosexuals... The initial reaction of many homosexuals, on being informed that they had AIDS, was what has been termed by psychologists, "homosexual rage," a dementia in which the patient is possessed by a mad desire for revenge. The phenomenon of this type of "AIDS dementia" has been observed in some 60 percent of AIDS patients

Dr. John Seale was not the first to point the finger at Dr. Robert Gallo, resident scientist of the National Institute of Health, who was famed as having discovered the human-immunodeficiency virus, HIV, which he claimed was the cause of AIDS. After Gallo's discovery, the NIH, which doles out funds for research on AIDS as well as many other categories, consistently denied funds to any scientist whose work failed to bear out Gallo's claim.

Dr. Peter Duesberg (UC Berkley, NAS), working in Gallo's lab, concluded that the HIV virus did not meet the standard criteria required of a disease-causing agent. He published his findings in the medical journal, Cancer Research, in March 1987, and sat back to wait for Dr. Gallo to justify his conclusions. Both he and the editor of Cancer Research, Dr. Peter McGee, were amazed when Dr. Gallo made no reply, either then or in the ensuing months. Dr. Gallo also refused to return telephone calls seeking to elicit some reaction to Duesberg's findings... Most scientists, when asked for their research notes, usually respond that they have been "accidentally burned." Whether anyone has ever seen any of Dr. Gallo's work isolating the HIV virus is not known. However, he has since moved to cut off any further studies of the HIV virus

Dr. Harvey Baily, research editor of the medical journal Bio/Technology, had organized a White House workshop on the subject, "How Does HIV Cause AIDS?" It was expected that Dr. Gallo would attend this conference and present some substantiation of his claims... But Gallo never appeared. Instead, the White House Conference, which was scheduled for January 19, 1988, was abruptly cancelled without explanation. Hundreds of millions of dollars continue to be awarded each year to pursue Gallo's questionable claim that the HIV virus causes AIDS. However, no funds are awarded to those who wish to challenge his claims.

"Little green monkey" theory: Monkeys to villagers in africa, to men in Haiti, to men in SF and NY.

AIDS was highly politicized.

AIDS patients who are being treated by oncologists (cancer specialists) are reported to be dying at a much greater rate than AIDS patients who are being treated by holistic methods.

Laurence Badgley, M.D., in his ground-breaking work, "Healing AIDS Naturally," offers a number of treatments, a typical one having shown good results with a vegetarian diet of vegetables, vitamins, wheat grass, juice and herbs

In New York State prisons from 1984 to 1986, the toll of AIDS victims was 45% hispanic, 43% black, with 97% of them being intravenous drug users (New York Times, February 7, 1988).

Chapter 7 - Fertilizer

The so-called "green" agricultural revolution was supposed to bring the Third World countries into the 20th century but has failed the farmers and only benefited the chemical industry. Undeveloped is a code word for unexploited.

Norman Borlaug developed "superwheat" dwarf crops in Mexico on Rockefeller dime by hyping the soil with huge amounts of nitrates and petroleum. Awarded Nobel Peace Prize in 1970.

The Rockefeller interests also sent Robert Chandler to the Philippines to develop a "Miracle Rice"; the result was a rice which used three times the previous amount of fertilizer. This rice matured in four months instead of the previous six months, producing three crops a year instead of two.

As usual, Rockefeller "philanthropy" was closely interlinked with markets, profits, and political control. Modern fertilizer is a petroleum based industry.

For a number of years during the nineteenth century, epidemics of cholera and typhoid fever had devastated the inhabitants of large American cities, the outbreaks being due to poor sanitation and contamination of the water supply. When the monopolists poured their excess chlorine into the water supplies after the First World War, the result was widely hailed as having ended the epidemics of cholera and typhoid fever. In fact, chlorination had not been responsible for this development. Typhoid fever had been largely due to the contamination of city streets by large quantities of horse droppings, which festered and drew flies. When it rained, this contamination was washed into the water supply. With the advent of the automobile, and the disappearance of horses from city streets as our main means of transportation, typhoid fever vanished almost overnight. This occurred during the 1920s, when automobiles replaced horses on the streets.

Excess chlorine in the water supply added to a diet high in animal fats forms a gummy substance in the arteries contributing to atherosclerosis. Heart disease went up as did the medical monopoly's earnings.

Dr. HM Sinclair, leading nutritionist, gave a World Health Day address which was reprinted in the BMJ Dec 14, 1957, asked why, despite advances in medicine and technology, life expectation was hardly different from today than a hundred years ago.

Dr. Julius Hensel, German agricultural chemist: "with such a one-sided fertilization slowly but surely, evil effects of various kinds will develop." "Manuring with lime makes rich fathers but poor sons."

FDA and AMA continue to valiantly defend the use of chemical fertilizers.

The importance of soil is shown by the fact that the proportion of iron in lettuce can vary from 1 mg per hundred to 50 mg per hundred, according to conditions of the soil in which it is grown. The Middle West has long been known as "the goiter belt," because of a widespread deficiency of iodine in the soil.

Many of the strange new diseases which have arisen to plague us in recent years are found to have a nutritional origin.

American Agricultural and Chemical Company (AACC) - Rockefeller controlled.

John C Traphagen, AACC director, Federal Reserve Bank of NY director, Rockefeller Institute of Medicine director, Bank of NY director, Fifth Avenue Bank, Wyandotte Chemicals director, and a director at at least ten major insurance companies within the Rothschild orbit

John Foster Dulles, AACC director, Secretary of State under Eisenhower, high level diplomat and banker with a long list of connections, brother of Allen Dulles (head of the CIA).

Many other directors of AACC were tied into Rockefeller interests like the American Cancer Society, The New York Times, major banks, and government positions.

The use of chemical fertilizers caused the protein content of vegetables to drop steadily at the rate of ten per cent a year... Chemical fertilizer reduced the amount of potassium in the soil, while increasing the amount of sodium.

Hybrid seeds are extremely profitable because they need to be sold and replanted every year.

Henry Kissinger arranged the Great Soviet Grain Robbery in 1972, bailing out the Soviet government while costing the American taxpayers many billions... To pay for the purchases from the United States in 1972, the Soviet Union was allowed to cover the payment in the following manner; the central bank of Hungary, acting for the Soviet Union, placed an order to sell the dollar short for $20 billion. Secretary of the Treasury, John Connally, then devalued the dollar by ten per cent. The Soviet Union made $4 billion on its short selling of the dollar, and paid for the grain... The Soviet grain deal resulted in increasing the price of all food supplies in the United States by twenty per cent.

The Big Five grain dealers are also heavily involved in currency manipulations, trading vast sums each day in currency futures, because their grain deals cause great fluctuations in the valuation of world currencies. With their inside track, they make huge profits whether the value of the currencies moves up or down.

Five grain dealers dominate commercial grain trade, and their directors overlap with big finance.

Cargill (25% of the world's grain trade).

Continental Grain (25% of the world grain trade) began operations during the Napoleonic Wars, supplying grain to both sides; Michael Fribourg owned 90% of the stock of Continental Grain, and 75% of the company ContiFinancial.

Bunge of Argentina (20% of the world's grain trade). Chairman Walter Klein is a policy-making official of the US-USSR Trade & Economic Council.

Louis Dreyfus (20% of the world's grain trade). Directed by Nathiel Samuels, Under Secretary for Economic Affairs under Nixon.

Andre (~10% of the world's grain trade), owned by a Swiss Calvinist family, members of the Plymouth Brethren.

Chapter 8 - Contamination of the Food Chain

National Academy of Sciences estimated that 15% of the American people are presently afflicted with allergies to one or more chemical products. The study pointed out that we are exposed to more toxic chemicals while inside our homes than when we go out.

Highly toxic chemicals Benzene, Para-dichlo-rebenzene, Lindane, Chlordane, Chloroform, Formaldehyde are in common items and products like mothballs, pesticide, and tap water.

Food is the single most important route of exposure for humans to synthetic chemicals. Additives, preservatives, dyes, bleaches, emulsifiers, antioxidants, flavors, buffers, sprays, acidifiers, alkalizers, deodorants, moisteners, anti-caking agents, anti-foaming agents, conditioners, curers, hydrolizers, hydrogenators, drying agents, gasses, extenders, thickeners, sweeteners, etc...

"Generally recognized as safe" (GRAS) are often untested for safety.

Rep. James J. Delaney of New York, in 1958, introduced the Delaney clause, which was enacted into law. It stated that if any food additive is found to induce cancer when ingested by man or animal, it is to be designated unsafe and cannot be used.

Many food additives were used for many decades before found that they are carcinogenic or disruptive to the body in some way.

In milling, flour is treated with improvers, oxidizing agents such as persulfate, bromate, iodate and nitrogen trichloride... Bleaching agents such as oxides of nitrogen, chlorine and benzoyl peroxide convert the yellow carotenoid pigment to colorless compounds because of alleged consumer desire for white bread. Vitamins and minerals are added in compulsory 'enrichment.' Mineral salts may be added to stabilize gas-retaining properties of flour gluten. Cyanide or chlorinated organic compounds may be employed in fumigation of the resulting flour in storage. The water used may be chemically purified by means of alum, soda ash, copper sulfate and chlorine . . . Ammonium salts and other chemicals are employed as yeast nutrients. Chemical leaveners may contain sodium bicarbonate, alum, tartrates, phosphates, starch, and cream of tartar. Mold inhibitors such as calcium propionate may be employed and the final product may be contaminated on the store shelf with insecticidal powders such as sodium fluoride.

Almost half of the American population, more than 100 million citizens, now suffer from some form of chronic illness, of which 25 million are allergic disorders. These allergies are increasingly found to be caused by exposure to or ingestion of some chemical substance.

DDT is a cumulative poison and caused widespread issues wherever it was used.

Nobel Prize winner Dr. Otto Warburg heralded the dangers of DDT when he warned that any poison which interferes with the respiration of the cells causes irreparable damage and produces degenerative diseases such as cancer. Despite such warnings, from 1947 to 1956, the annual production of DDT quadrupled to an annual total of more than five hundred million pounds. The Public Health Service analyzed food in a Federal prison for DDT content, finding stewed fruit with 69 ppm content, bread with 100 ppm DDT content, while lard used in the preparation of food was estimated to have 2500 ppm DDT. Tests also showed that it took many years to lower the amount of DDT stored in body fat. DDT is even more persistent in soil; seven years after DDT was applied to test plots 80% of it remained. Orchards and farms which used DDT in annual spraying built up enormous amounts in the soil. DDT has since been banned, but the residues remain. Even after the ban, Monsanto continued to make huge profits from the sale of DDT by exporting it to other countries.

After two hundred children became ill from eating dyed popcorn at a Christmas party in 1955, the FDA announced decertification of the three dyes involved, Red No. 32, Orange 1 and Orange 2. A government report stated that, "when FD&C Red No. 32 was fed to rats at a level of 2% of the diet, all the rats died within a week. At a 1% level, death occurred within 12 days. At 0.5%, most of the rats died within 26 days. At 0.25% approximately half of the rats died within 3 months. All of the rats showed marked growth retardation and anemia. Autopsy revealed moderate to marked liver damage.

Hydrogenation process: fatty acids are saturated with hydrogen under pressure with temps up to 410F for as long as eight hours with a metal catalyst: nickel, platinum, or copper.

AMA officials testified before a Senate Committee that there is no proof that diet is related to disease, adding the warning that changing American eating habits might lead to "economic dislocation."

The Arthritis Foundation regularly reiterates that arthritis is incurable, and they denounce health detoxification programs to cleanse the system.

From 1940 to 1977, the American intake of food colorings and additives increased tenfold, while the per capita consumption of fruits and vegetables declined. Later studies have shown an inverse association between the daily intake of green or yellow vegetables and the mortality rates from cancer. Studies of victims of prostate cancer, now epidemic among American men, showed a high intake of fats, milk, meats and coffee.

The Washington Post, January 23, 1988, noted that of 60,000 chemicals now in general use, only two per cent have been tested for toxicity.

Caramel is prepared from ammonia.

Cochineal, used to produce a bright red color, is made from the bodies of dried lice.

Hexochlorophene, used in phiso hex, causes death when rubbed on the skin of infants. Phiso hex was featured in feminine hygiene sprays, Dial soap, shampoos, toothpaste, and many cosmetics. It was manufactured from the same chemical as DOW's deadly weedkillers, 2,4,5T and 2,4D, and closely related to dioxin.

Commonly used food colorings are derived from benzene and other highly toxic substances.

Although canning of food became very popular during the nineteenth century, as an ideal method of preserving large quantities of food which would otherwise be thrown away, the canning process heats the food until it destroys the enzymes. Heating food over 130 degrees eliminates the enzymes, which are the keystone to growth in the system. Enzymes take on minerals and use them for growth.

Byproducts of atomic bomb manufacturing (Cobalt 60) is being sold at $100,000/kilogram and used to irradiate food.

The first commercial use of food irradiation took place in occupied West Germany in 1957, where it was used experimentally to sterilize spices used in the manufacture of sausages. The results were so disturbing that the West German government was forced to ban it in 1958. At the same time, the Soviet Union had begun to use irradiation to inhibit the sprouting of potatoes in storage; in 1959, the Soviets used it for the disinfection of grain. Canada, which is heavily influenced by pro-Soviet representatives in its government, began to use irradiation on potatoes in 1960. The U.S. Food and Drug Cosmetic Act of 1958 took up the use of irradiation, defining it as an "additive," which brought it under their control. In 1963, the FDA gave permission for the use of irradiation to sterilize canned bacon; this permission was rescinded in 1968.

In 1968, the Rockefeller Monopoly moved to back the food irradiation process on a national level. The Coalition for Food Irradiation was formed by some of the nation's biggest food companies; ALPO, Beatrice, Campbell Soup, Del Monte, Gaines Foods, General Foods, Hormel, Heinz, Hershey, Gerber, MARS, Stouffer and Welch. Joining them in the coalition were the chemical companies, W. R. Grace, DuPont and Rockwell International. The Coalition began the tried and true technique of staging well-planned and expensive "conferences" at prominent universities, at which only the advocates for their plan would be heard.

Chapter 9 - The Drug Trust

In 1987, the eighteen largest drug firms were ranked as follows:

1. Merck (U.S.) $4.2 billion. / 2. Glaxo Holdings (UK) $3.4 billion / 3. Hoffman LaRoche (Switzerland) $3.1 billion / 4. Smith Kline Beckman (U.S.) $2.8 billion. / 5. Ciba-Geigy (Switzerland) $2.7 billion. / 6. Pfizer (U.S.) $2.5 (Standard & Poor's gives its sales as $4 billion). / 7. Hoechst AG (Germany) $2.5 billion (Standard & Poor's lists its sales as $38B Deutschmarks). / 8. American Home Products (U.S.) $2.4 billion ($4.93 billion according to Standard & Poor's). / 9. Lilly (U.S.) $2.3 billion ($3.72 billion Standard & Poor's). / 10. Upjohn (U.S.) $2 billion. / 11. Squibb (U.S.) $2 billion. / 12. Johnson & Johnson (U.S.) $1.9 billion. / 13. Sandoz (Switzerland) $1.8 billion. / 14. Bristol Myers (U.S.) $1.6 billion. / 15. Beecham Group (United Kingdom) $1.4 billion (Standard & Poor's gives $1.4 billion in sales of the U.S. subsidiary—$2.6 billion pounds sterling as overall income). / 16. Bayer A.G. (Germany) $1.4 billion (Standard & Poor's gives the figure as $45.9B Deutschmarks). / 17. Syntex (U.S.) $1.1 billion. / 18. Warner Lambert (U.S.) $1.1 billion (Standard & Poor's gives the figure as $3.1 billion).

The United States still maintains an overwhelming lead in the production and sale of drugs. In the United States, the sale of prescription drugs rose in 1987 by 12.5% to $27 billion.

IG Farben would exist no more; instead, three companies would emerge—Bayer, of Leverkusen; BASF at Ludwigshafen; and Hoescht, near Frankfurt. Each of the three spawns is now larger than the old IG Farben... BASF is represented in the United States by Shearman and Sterling, the Rockefeller law firm of which William Rockefeller is a partner.

Merck connections:

John J Horan, Merck president, JP Morgan Company partner.

John T Connor, Merck director, also director of Schroeders (London bank), Chase Manhattan Bank, media outlets, and a competing drug company and.

John K McKinley, Merck director, COO of Texaco, director of Manufacturers Hanover Bank, which Congressional records identify as a major Rothschild bank, director at Sloan Kettering Cancer Institute, plus directing roles at various aircraft and defense industries.

Ruben F. Mettler, Merck director, director of Bank of America, chairman of the defense contractor TRW, chief of the Guided Missiles Department at Ramo-Wooldridge.

Frank T. Cary, Merck director, partner of JP Morgan Co, chairman of IBM, director of Capital Cities ABC.

Lloyd C. Elam, Merck director, director of Nashville City Bank, Alfred P Sloan Foundation, Meharry Medical College, and American Psychiatric Association.

Marian Sulzberger Heiskell, director of Merck, Ford Motor. Heiress of NYT fortune; Married chairman of Time magazine.

Albert W. Merck, Reginald Jones

Paul G Rogers, Director of Merck, the American Cancer Society, the Rand Corporation, and Mutual Life Insurance, chairman of congressional subcommittee on health, lobbyist.

Thus we find that the world's No. 1 drug firm has two directors who are partners of J. P. Morgan Company, one who is director of Rockefeller's Chase Manhattan Bank and one who is director of the Rothschild Bank, Manufacturers Hanover; most of the directors are connected with vital defense industries, and interlock with other defense firms. On the board of TRW, of which Ruben Mettler is chairman, is William H. Krome George, former chairman of ALCOA, and Martin Feldstein, former economic advisor to President Reagan. The major banks, defense firms, and prominent political figures interlock with the CIA and the drug firms.

Not just Merck (the biggest drug firm in 1987), but each of the major drug firms in the United States has at least one director with close Rockefeller connections, or with a Rothschild bank.

No. 2 drug firm Glaxo Holdings, has the same type of connections between directors, Rothchild banks, the defense industry, media, and tech.

No. 3 drug firm Hoffman LaRoche. In 1988, the FDA publicized figures that showed Hoffman LaRoche drug Accutane caused 1000 spontaneous abortions, 7000 other abortions, and other side effects such as joint aches, drying of skin and mucous membranes, and hair loss... The company was aware that Accutane caused serious effects when taken during pregnancy. Another Hoffman LaRoche drug Versed (chemical cousin of Valium) was recorded as causing forty deaths in 1988.

No. 4 drug firm Smith Kline Beckman directors include Robert F Dee, Samuel H Balam, Jr, Francis P Lucier, Donald P McHenry, Carolyn K Davis, all of whom are connected to big industry and governmental/banking aspects of the Medical Industrial Complex.

No 6. Drug firm Pfizer banks with Chase Manhattan Bank.

Pfizer directors, same as all drug companies, are also directors in the most elite financial institutions, defense companies, tech giants, media, etc.

Chapter 10 - The Rockefeller Syndicate

Rothschild monetary power reached a point of world control in 1885.

Royal Institute for International Affairs (RIIA) is the London policy group of the Rothschilds.

Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is the American subsidiary of the RIIA.

The Rockefeller Foundation controls government agencies, education, the media, and religions.

Rockefellers are answerable to the Rothschilds.

Americans are 'free' to vote for one of two handpicked candidates.

Americans are 'free' to invest in a stock market in which the daily quantity, price and value of the monetary unit is manipulated and controlled by a Federal Reserve System which is answerable only to the Bank of England.

The world financial structure consists of the major Swiss Banks; the survivors of the old Venetian-Genoese banking axis; the Big Five of the world grain trade; the British combine, centered in the Bank of England and its chartered merchant banks, functioning through the Rothschilds and the Oppenheims and having absolute control over their Canadian colony through the Royal Bank of Canada and the Bank of Montreal, their Canadian lieutenants being the Bronfmans, Belzbergs, Reichmanns and other financial operators; and the colonial banking structure in the United States, controlled by the Bank of England through the Federal Reserve System; the Boston Brahmin families who made their fortunes in the opium trade, including the Delanos and others and the Rockefeller Syndicate, consisting of the Kissinger network headquartered in the Rockefeller Bank, Chase Manhattan Bank, American Express, the present form of the old Rothschild representatives in the United States, which includes Kuhn, Loeb Company and Lehman Brothers.

Since he set up the Trilateral Commission, David Rockefeller has functioned as a sort of international courier for the World Order,

The Russians are very health conscious, and a scientist had sent information to Khrushchev that the use of chemical fertilizers in the Soviet Union presented a threat to the people. Khrushchev then announced a major change in the Soviet farm policy, centering around a reduction in the use of chemicals. This was upsetting to the head of the world's Chemical Fertilizer Trust, David Rockefeller, and he responded with a terse one word command, "Out."

John D Rockefeller, father of David, "the most ruthless American" sought to destroy all competition in his quest for monopoly. Oil, railroad, and steel industries became the "military industrial complex (MIC)."

John D was the principal financier of the world Communist movement, through a firm called American International Company.

Control of labor through unions has always been a basic Rockefeller technique.

Between monopolies on Oil, Medicine, tax exempt Non-Government Organizations, and labor unions, The Rockefeller family effectively controlled every aspect of American life as a front for the hidden rulers the Rothschilds.

William Rockefeller (father of John D) was indicted for raping a hired girl in Cayuga, New York, 1849. William Rockefeller sold Kier's Magic Oil (or Rock Oil or Seneca Oil) wholesale, advertised as a magic cancer cure. He also sold "Wonder working Liniment" (Nujol), crude petroleum from which the lighter oils had been boiled away. It was sold as an antidote to constipation, it robbed the body of fat-soluble vitamins, it being a well-established medical fact that mineral oil coated the intestine and prevented the absorption of many needed vitamins and other nutritional needs.

Senator Royal S Copeland, Rockefeller appointed head of the New York State Department of Health, was awarded $75,000/year for his promotion of Nujol. He was often called the Senator from the American Medical Association, because of his enthusiastic backing for any program launched by the AMA and Morris Fishbein. More realistically, he was usually referred to as "the Senator from Standard Oil." He could be counted on to promote any legislation devised for the greater profit of the Rockefeller monopoly. "Copeland's frank display of commercialism amazed even the most blase Washington reporters."

Congressional Debate on the Food and Drug Act in 1938.

The principal accomplishments of the Rockefeller drive for power, the rebate scheme for monopoly, the chartering of the foundations to gain power over American citizens, the creation of the central bank, the Federal Reserve System, the backing of the World Communist revolution and the creation of the Medical Monopoly, all came from the Rothschilds or from their European employees... The concept of the tax exempt charitable foundation originated with the Rothschild minion, George Peabody, in 1865. The Peabody Educational Foundation later became the Rockefeller Foundation. Establishment of the Rockefeller Foundation effectively insulated Standard Oil from competition. Controlling stock.

Rockefellers promoted the world communist revolution. Financed Trotsky. Karl Marx is associated with the House of Rothschild. "The ultimate monopoly" is controlling all governments, the monetary system, and property.

IG Farben, Interessen Gemeinschaft Farbeindustrie Aktien gesellschaft, aka The Cartel. Merged six German chemical companies into one.

Max Warburg, German banker for the Rothschilds, later head of German secret service during WWI. Personal financial adviser to the Kaiser before and after the war.

Paul Warburg, brother of Max, co-drafted the Federal Reserve Act at Jekyll Island, headed the US banking system during the war.

Henry Ford set up a German branch of Ford Motor Company. Forty per cent of the stock was purchased by IG Farben.

American IG, American subsidiary of IG Farben in cooperation with Standard Oil of New Jersey. Directors of American IG included Walter Teagle (president of Standard Oil), Paul Warburg, and Edsel Ford, Charles Mitchell (president of National City Bank), Carl Bosch, Herman Schmitz, Max Ilgner.

Herman Schmitz, head of IG, personal advisor to Chancellor Brüning

Carl Bosch, German chemist, founder of IG Farben.

John Foster Dulles, lawyer for IG Farben, director of American Banknote, US Secretary of State.

Arthur Dean, director of the Teagle Foundation and Hochschild Foundation, director of American Banknote, director of Rockefeller's American Ag&Chem Company, American Solvay, American Metal. Attorney for Hochschild Family. Director emeritus of the Council on Foreign Relations, the Asia Foundation, International House, Carnegie Foundation, and the Sloan Kettering Cancer Center.

1930 - Standard Oil purchased an alcohol monopoly in Germany in a deal set up by IG Farben. After Hitler came to power, John D. Rockefeller assigned his personal press agent, Ivy Lee, to Hitler to serve as a fulltime adviser on the rearmament of Germany, a necessary step for setting up World War II. Standard Oil then built large refineries in Germany for the Nazis and continued to supply them with oil during World War II. In the 1930s, Standard Oil was receiving in payment from Germany large shipments of musical instruments and ships which had been built in German yards.

Frank Howard, director of Standard Oil research and its international agreements, liaison to IG Farben, chairman of the research committee at Sloan Kettering Institute. Howard in 1939 persuaded Alfred Sloan and Charles Kettering of GM to give their fortunes to the cancer center which then took their names. Married the Duchess of Leeds.

Dusty Rhoads, Sloan Kettering headed the experimentation in the development of chemotherapy. headed the Chemical Warfare Service in Washington at U.S. Army Headquarters, WWII.

Thomas Osborne, one of the key conspirators in the overthrow of King James II and the seizure of the throne of England by William III in 1688. Became Duke of Leeds in 1694

The 11th Duke of Leeds was Minister to Washington from 1931 to 1935, Minister to the Holy See from 1936 to 1947. One branch of the family married into the Delano family, becoming relatives of Franklin Delano Roosevelt. A cousin, Viscount Chandos, was a prominent British official, serving in the War Cabinet under Churchill from 1942 to 1945, later becoming a director of the Rothschild firm, Alliance Assurance, and Imperial Chemical Industries.

Walter Teagle, the president of Standard Oil, owned 500,000 shares of American IG, these shares later becoming the basis of the Teagle Foundation. Herman Metz, who was also a director of American IG, was president of HA Metz Company, New York, a drug firm wholly owned by IG Farben of Germany.

American IG changed its name to General Aniline and Film during the Second World War, but it was still wholly owned by IG Chemie of Switzerland, a subsidiary of IG Farben of Germany.

Charles Higham's book, "Trading with the Enemy," offers ample documentation of the Rockefeller activities during the Second World War.

Nelson Rockefeller, after WWII, became Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs in Washington. Started meddling in South American business. Cornered the Columbian coffee market. The attack on Vice President Nixon's automobile when he visited South America was explained by American officials as a direct result of the depredations of the Rockefellers, which caused widespread agitation against Americans in Latin America.

Wall Street Journal on May 3, 1988—GERMANY BEATS WORLD IN CHEMICAL SALES. Reporter Thomas F. O'Boyle listed the world's top five chemical companies in 1987 as 1. BASF $25.8 billion dollars 2. Bayer $23.6 billion dollars. 3. Hoechst $23.5 billion dollars. 4. ICI $20 billion dollars. 5. DuPont $17 billion dollars in chemical sales only. The first three companies are the firms resulting from the "dismantling" of IG Farben from 1945 to 1952 by the Allied Military Government, in a process suspiciously similar to the "dismantling" of the Standard Oil empire by court edict in 1911.

The Marshall Plan "altruistic plan to rebuild devastated Europe" proved to be merely another Rockefeller Plan to loot the American taxpayer. Rushed through Congress by a powerful and vocal group, headed by Winthrop Aldrich, president of the Chase Manhattan Bank and Nelson Rockefeller's brother-in-law, ably seconded by Nelson Rockefeller and William Clayton, the head of Anderson, Clayton Company.

Other postwar swindles included:

Bretton Woods Agreement, formation of the IMF and World Bank

United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation, "economic assistance to Europe," dissolved and became the various UN agencies like the WHO and International Refugee Organization).

Rockefeller intervention in the Congo

Used the Grangesberg operation as an agent to incite a revolution and seize total control of the copper mines. Carried out by Dean Rusk and George Ball of the State Department and by Fowler Hamilton.

Old John D. Rockefeller's treasurer at Standard Oil, Charles Pratt, bequeathed his New York mansion to the Council on Foreign Relations as its world headquarters. His grandson, George Pratt Shultz, is now Secretary of State.

Rockefellers funded communist groups in America through the League for Industrial Democracy. They also sponsored the John Birch Society, a famous right wing anti-communist group.

Rockefeller effect on churches: Trinity Church is managed by JP Morgan, they own 40 commercial properties in Manhattan, and a $50 Million dollar stock portfolio.

Rockefeller control of medicine: Cancer industry, drug firms all have a Chase Manhattan Bank director and Standard Oil director on their board.

Rich man's club, the New York Academy of Medicine, was funded by Rockefeller Foundation and Carnegie Foundation seed money. Led by Dr. Linsly Williams, married to Grace Kidder Ford.

Rockefeller Sanitary Commission. Campaign in the southern states. It was headed by Dr. Wickliffe Rose, a longtime Rockefeller henchman whose name appears on the original charter of the Rockefeller Foundation

Rockefeller's general Education Board has spent more than $100 million to gain control of the nation's medical schools

One of the most far-reaching consequences of the General Education Board's political philosophy was achieved with a mere six million dollar grant to Columbia University in 1917, to set up the "progressive" Lincoln School. From this school descended the national network of progressive educators and social scientists, whose pernicious influence closely paralleled the goals of the Communist Party, another favorite recipient of the Rockefeller millions.

The huge Burroughs Wellcome drug firm is wholly owned by the "charitable" Wellcome Trust. This trust is directed by Lord Oliver Franks, a key member of the London Connection which maintains the United States as a British Colony. Franks was Ambassador to the United States from 1948 to 1952. He is now a director of the Rockefeller Foundation, as its principal representative in England. He also is a director of the Schroder Bank, which handled Hitler's personal bank account, director of the Rhodes Trust in charge of approving Rhodes scholarships, visiting professor at the University of Chicago and chairman of Lloyd's Bank, one of England's Big Five.

Rockefeller Foundation spinoffs: Social Science Research Council; the Brookings Institution; the National Bureau of Economic Research, whose findings play a critical role in manipulating the stock market; the Public Administration Clearing House, which indoctrinates the nation's municipal employees; the Council of State Governments, which controls the nation's state legislatures; and the Institute of Pacific Relations, the most notorious Communist front in the United States.

Rockefellers own 5% of Chase Manhattan Bank.

Rockefellers in the Reagan Administration: George Pratt Schultz, Casper Weinberger. During the Carter Administration, David Rockefeller generously sent his personal assistant, Paul Volcker, to Washington to head the Federal Reserve Board. Reagan finally replaced him in 1987 with Alan Greenspan, a partner of J. P. Morgan Company.

Rockefeller monopolists exercise their evil power almost solely through federal and state agents.

Today, we suffer from a host of debilitating ailments, both mental and physical, nearly all of which can be traced directly to the operations of the chemical and drug monopoly, and which pose the greatest threat to our continued existence as a nation.
